A true champion of the Community Health Worker (CHW) role is someone who exudes compassion towards their community and establishes a deep connection with its people. Their experience and maturity in this role earn the community's trust, and their unbiased approach to situations and decisions demonstrates a strong commitment to social justice. Additionally, their self-awareness, inner health, and understanding are essential qualities that enable them to effectively teach and empower the community.

Please explain how the above nominee surpasses the characteristics of a Champion CHW in their area of focus.
